SALUTES

My salutes are the best available. They are assembled using all paper cans, end discs and uncut flash. There are no fillers added. I use a special mix ratio of ingredients that produces a very powerful, “thump in your chest” type tone. In addition to the wicked noise level created by the salute it also creates an extremely bright flash.

Three inch magnums are strung and pasted.

LAMPARE'

I am the only domestic manufacturer and have built and sold over 8,500 so far. They are built like tanks and the new method of manufacture and design has made this awesome effect safer than ever.

BALL SHELLS

My ball shells are the result of nine years of research and development. I have managed to create the largest breaking shell available. To give you an example; import six inch shells generally contain stars that burn for up to two seconds, with a lift charge to propel the shell upward in the 90 gram range. My six-inch shells contain stars that burn for up to six seconds and contain 240 grams of lift! My twelve-inch shells have a rise time (from the timed the shell is propelled out of the mortar until it breaks in the sky) of eight seconds and create an extremely large break.

My ball shells are made of paper and contain no plastic, so they are safe for your shooters as well as your spectators.

COLORS AVAILABLE

Ruby red, green, emerald green, turquoise, pink, chartreuse, blue, white, yellow, gold, silver, orange, purple, lilac, magenta, crackle, tiger tail, gold glitter, white glitter, gold strobe, gold chandelier, gold and silver spider web, silver twinkler, and willow diadem.

Colors can be shaded, that is an orange can be “tangerine” (a more reddish orange).

Quite simply I can manufacture any color you desire, although keep in mind doing a single shell of one color is impossible. In other words I like to make a series of sizes or many of one size all the same color or color change.

BALL SHELL STYLES AVAILABLE

Here is a brief summary of types of shells and shell terminology used in my catalog when describing what is available.

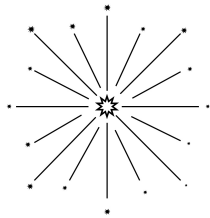

COLOR OPTIONS

- A ball shell can be a certain color, such as red or green. From the time the shell opens in the sky until it goes out, it will remain the same color. It could also be a combination of colors, such as red, white and blue.
- A fancy color changer would open up in the sky as one color and then each individual star would change to another color. Depending on the size of the shell it may change up to three times until it goes out. An example of a color changing shell would be a 6-inch silver to red to blue. Another example would be a 12-inch silver to red tipped.
- This is important! When determining your color changes try to start with a charcoal type composition. This gives the subsequent color changes a backdrop that makes them appear more vivid. Examples of charcoal compositions are listed below.

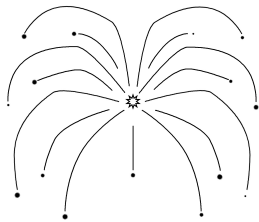

Willow diadem
Silver glitter
Gold glitter
Gold dahlia
Silver diadem or nashiki
Spider web (lampblack)
Silver spider web
Tremelon

STYLE OF BREAK

- A shell may break chrysanthemum style which projects the stars so they fly straight from the center of the break of the shell and go out before starting to droop over. This would appear like this;

- A shell may break diadem style, which initially projects the stars straight, but the stars are long burning so eventually they cascade over and create a large umbrella effect. This shell would appear like this;

An example would be a 10-inch willow diadem to ruby red to gold strobe.
Another example would be an 8 inch gold spider to turquoise

ANOTHER OPTION

- A shell may have a pistil. Which would mean it would create an outer sphere of color (outer petal) and also have an inner sphere of another complimentary color (pistil). The pistil is usually less than one-third the diameter of the outer petal.

TERMS AND RECOMMENDATIONS ON ORDERING!

- I tried to avoid this for a long time, but as I have grown my expenses have also. Plus some operators are unscrupulous. I can no longer take orders without a deposit. I now require a 50% deposit on all orders before we can begin manufacturing.
- All fireworks we manufacture are made per order, please allow plenty of lead time for completion.
- I can only sell display fireworks to properly licensed individuals or companies. I ask that you supply your licenses upon ordering so I can be sure you are able to receive these products.
